terrified	in love
excited	confused
sorrowful	angry
overjoyed	bored

The Literacy Shed © 2017

Slowly, I uncovered my eyes and lifted my head up, trying to ignore the dull, throbbing headache and ringing in my ears. What I saw around me looked like war zone. As far the eye could see, equipment and furniture lay like a hurricane had ripped through the corridor and left devastation in its wake.

I stumbled to my feet. My legs felt like jelly, like they were hesitant to move, but I knew I had to get out. With a pounding heart and sweaty palms, I headed towards the exit.

The Literacy Shed © 2017

Angry

What happens to your face/ body/ inside when you feel like this?

1)_____

_____

2)_____

_____

3)_____

_____

Excited

What happens to your face/ body/ inside when you feel like this?

1)_____

_____

2)_____

_____

3)_____

_____

Nervous

What happens to your face/ body/ inside when you feel like this?

1)_____

_____

2)_____

_____

3)_____

_____

The Literacy Shed © 2017